PERMIT REQUIREMENTS AND FEES

Work requiring a permit.

Permits are needed on all new construction, alterations, additions, replacement, decks, windows, doors, stairs, siding, re-roofing, plumbing, heating, air conditioning and any form of construction governed by the codes adopted by the City of Buffalo, over $1000.00 valuation, material and labor. Permits are also required for street cuts, fences and out buildings larger than 120 sq ft, regardless of valuation. Interior remodeling does not require a permit unless structural changes are made.

Work exempt from permit requirements and exceptions.

1. Any new construction, alteration, addition or repair, plumbing and mechanical work, the valuation of which is one thousand dollars or less is exempt from a permit, but must be constructed or installed in accordance with the technical codes adopted by the city.
2. Gas piping, water heaters, replacement or new installations of water or sewer service piping, and any fuel burning appliances require a permit regardless of the valuation.
3. On new building construction, separate plumbing and mechanical permits are not needed, they are included in the computed square footage permit fee.
4. Electrical permits and fee's are administered and enforced through the State of Wyoming Fire Prevention and Electrical Safety Office.
5. Other work exempt from a permit: Retaining walls less than 4', concrete flatwork less than 30" above grade, sprinkler systems, painting, papering, tiling, carpeting, cabinets, countertops and similar finish work, swings & playground equipment.

Building Permit Fees.

Building permit fee's will be established by the building official and approved through a resolution by the city council. Tap fee's are to be paid for with the building permit.
